Journey through time

In cradle's embrace, a tender soul is born,
A symphony of innocence, pure and unadorned.
Gentle whispers guide, as love's lullabies unfurl,
The dawn of life's melody, a precious, fragile pearl.

With playful steps, a child embarks on life's stage,
Curiosity's ballet, upon an endless page.
Imagination soars, dreams begin to take flight,
A youthful anthem of wonder, bathed in golden light.

Adulthood crescendo a resolute heartbeat,
The symphony of choices, each note bittersweet.
Passions intertwine, harmonies collide and blend,
A dance of triumphs and struggles, a melody to transcend.

In twilight's embrace, old age gently whispers near,
The symphony slows but memories remain clear.
Reflections like sonnets, sung in seasoned voice,
A lifetime's composition where hearts and souls rejoice.

Through each stage of life's grand ballet,
We learn, we grow, we find our way.
From infant's innocence to the wisdom of old,
The symphony of life, a story to be told.

Wake up!

So many minds, filled with rattling thoughts,
Don't know when they got tied into knots.
Imagining something that can't be true,
Need to know, many hurdles already waiting in a queue.

There's a difference between dreaming and imagining.
Dream teaches to fight whereas imagination is just a verb of sight.
Making fake scenarios to achieve something big in mind, will bring destruction of a worst kind.
Stop imagining, wake up!
Give your mind a shake up!
Dream for real, work with heart.
God has written good for us in one of his cards.
No more excuses, it's time to wake up!
Start from today because tomorrow will never give you a second chance.
